Walker, Washington, General Field Superintendent of the dry forces made the capture after they had according to Mr. Walker, dickered for the purchase of 25,000 cases of whiskey from the vessel's master, paying $100,000 in currency and checks for the contraband. Bankers in this country, England and Canada were concerned in the conspiracy, Walker said.

Federal operative said they were convinced that the Frederick B. was one of four rum ships operated by a band of international rum smuggling conspirators. Three other ships of the "rum line" they said, have landed between 75,000 and 100,000 cases of whiskey and other liquors in the United States in the last seven months.

Trucks Collide; One Driver Hurt

Milburn Shoppe, 22, driver for the Ohio Valley Wholesale Company, Fifth street, was injured and the Truck truck he was driving was badly damaged. Afternoon about 3:30 o'clock in an accident at Robinson avenue and Clay streets. Shoppe was driving west on Robinson avenue while a big truck owned by the Portsmouth Ice and Coal Company, was driven north on Clay towards Grandview. The machine came together with considerable force and the driver of the truck sustained injury to his face. Fred Buessman and Julius Buessman who were passing the scene of the accident took Shoppe to the office of Dr. J. W. Brown where treatment of life remained there until he recovered from the brain concussion.

AVISON, ILLS., October 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Railroad officials today were searching for an unidentified negro for questioning in connection with the wrecking of B. & O. passenger train number 12 en route here last night which resulted in the death of C. Van Almen, 60 years old, of Washington, Ind., the engineer, and the injury of about fifteen passengers. The train ran into an open switch, the engine and several cars leaving the rails.

information to the railroad police but was overpowered by other members of the crew. He left the scene threatening to "get" the brakeman, they said.

A work train passed safely over the switch an hour previous to the wreck, according to the officials, and as there was nothing wrong with it at that time they said they were at a loss to explain why it was open later unless the negro had pulled it, as a means of carrying out his threat.

Caustic words were used last night at a well attended meeting of the West End Improvement Association. When the question of the resurfacing of Second street was brought up, a number of the members discussed filing an injunction suit against the Public Service company, preventing them from laying their part of the street the way it is to be put down. They claim that the rails should be laid on a concrete base, and aver that if it is not put down in this manner will be in the same shape as before, within a very short time. The matter was discussed from angles, but no action was taken, being the consensus of opinion that any action should be taken it should have been just as soon as it started. The members also entered protest about the Service company using some of the old brick to fill the section between their tracks.

Bids were opened this morning by Safety Director George Koerner for the letting of contracts for the new fire station at Sciotoville and for additional fire equipment. The Georgetown News-Democrat which published a dispatch from Manchester stating that Congressman Kearns was not allowed to speak on Defense Day insists there was foundation for its article. The News-Democrat in its latest issue has this comment to make:

The News-Democrat finds itself criticized as a news medium because it was the only newspaper in the Sixth congressional district with sufficient fearlessness to give account of what occurred at Manchester Defense Day, when controversy arose over whether Congressman Charles Kearns should be urged forward to speak at a time when Colonel Tom Morris, Democratic candidate for attorney general and commander of the Manchester company during the world war, had been chosen for that honor.

In the criticism offered by the local Republican organ, The Gazette, the charge is made that "one paper in the district wanting to blaze forth to the world — that article in regard to it under Manchester headline," and then further states:

"We did not take hearsay but investigated in Manchester to know the truth. We found that Mr.
Kearns had informed the people in charge of the Defense Day program at Manchester that he would not speak in the open, and when he reached Manchester that evening he immediately saw that the speakers' platform was in the open and that more than three thousand people gathered in the length and breadth of the streets."

This brings Congressman Kearns from Winchester to Manchester, he having delivered the address at the former place that day. That the general public may know that the News-Democrat has no other mission in this matter of general news than to state facts as they exist, here is appended a statement held forth by a prominent citizen, who was an eye-witness, and by the way one of Republican faith: "The account carried by the News-Democrat of the Defense Day demonstration," says the statement, "I consider to be very accurate from a newspaper standpoint."

"Mayor Boone, by virtue of his office, was chairman of the meeting. In picking the committees to assist him he naturally selected volunteers of the World War, and among them there is considerable opposition to Mr. Kearns, growing out of his failure to appoint one of them as postmaster at Manchester."

"The committee engaged Thomas
Morris to deliver the address.
Friends of Mr. Kearns brought him to Manchester in the late afternoon from Winchester where he had delivered an address and whether or not an arrangement had been made with Mayor Boone for him to speak, we do not know; but we do know that he (Mr. Kearns) had made his way to the speakers' stand when a wave of protest arose and the Mayor was surrounded by the infuriated opponents, who made wild threats of what would happen if he was allowed to mount the speakers' stand. The turmoil subsided and Mr. Kearns moved in to the back-ground. The sympathies of many bystanders were with him as they felt he was made the victim of circumstances to the extent of which could not have been known."

With this statement the News-Democrat is ready to rest its case
as to its veracity as a news medium.
No denial is made that Mr. Kearns was present. There is even no denial made that attempt was made for him to speak. The statement carried above does not misrepresent the Federal government, which
as to its veracity as a news medium.
It simply states that "the Mayor was surrounded by the infuriated opponents who made wild threats of what would happen if he (Mr.
Kearns) was allowed to mount the speakers' stand." That is the point the News-Democrat considered, believing of sufficient importance as to make a news item of interest for the people of the Sixth congressional district.

Democratic Candidate for Sheriff Has a Fine Record as an Officer

MR. HARRY S. SHEETS

"I have had more than twelve years experience as an officer. I served six years as chief of police in Cleveland, Ohio. Later I served two years as sheriff of Pickaway county.
As an officer, I have never considered it my duty to question the whims and wherefores, the popularity or unpopularity of laws. I considered myself paid to see that laws were obeyed and I always have endeavored to live up to that conception of my duty. Any one who wishes to know my record can easily obtain information by writing to Cleveland or visiting that city. I am running for sheriff of Scioto county with the expectation of enforcing the laws of the land in the event I am elected."

It is Harry S. Sheets, candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket who is speaking. Mr. Sheets is making an active canvass for the office.
He is straight-out, as to where he stands, as shown by the above statement, and his stand is backed up by a long and honorable record as an officer of the law. His reputation at Cleveland is that of a man who is firm for being up to the laws, while at the same time he was equally careful that the rights and privileges of citizens were respected.

Mr. Sheets was born in Deer Creek township, Pickaway county, August 6th, 1875. The family moved to Cleveland when he was quite small and he received his education in the Cleveland schools. December 1903, Mr.

Sheets was appointed a patrolman in the Cleveland police department.
His record was such that in May, 1905, he was appointed chief of police of Cleveland, serving until January 1st, 1913 when he entered upon his duties as sheriff of Pickaway county.
Having been elected the previous fall by a large majority. Two years later he was re-elected by an increased majority. When the United States entered the war, Mr. Sheets was named as chairman of the Pickaway county draft board, serving with distinction, and earning commendation for efficiency, throughout the war.
Following the armistice, in December 1918, Mr. Sheets moved to Portsmouth, having secured a position with the Selby Shoe company, with which firm he has been working ever since.
Mr. Sheets' wife is a Scioto county girl, Miss Ida Tatum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tatum, formerly of Union township, but now residing on West Second street. They have six children.
Mr. and Mrs. Sheets are affiliated with the United Brethren church.

Democrats Open Campaign; Splendid Speakers Heard

Scioto County Democrats formally opened their local campaign with an organization meeting held in the Winter Garden last night with State Chairman Thomas F. Dye, of Crban, and Ed. H. Kennedy, of Georgetown, as the principal speakers.
County Chairman J. Allen Staker presided over the meeting and the more than three hundred committees

men, precinct workers and others present heard the stirring addresses of the evening in which the battle cry of the party was sounded.
For an hour before Chairman Staker called the meeting to order, the Buckeye orchestra entertained the audience with some splendid music from the stage, which was decorated with the national colors and pictures of the Democratic standard bearers, Candidates John

Wellston Citizen Swallows Poison; Dies

WELLSTON, Ohio, October 4.— Frank Serrott, 72, who resided at the edge of the city on Piggy's Knob, died Thursday night at 10:45 o'clock from the effects of Paris Green poisoning taken with suicidal intent, as a result, it is believed, of despondency over the fact that he had become aged and was not able to work.

Serrott went to his garden near the home to dig potatoes, and shortly after 11 o'clock Mrs. Serrott called to him to come to dinner. He answered from the grape arbor that he couldn't come then that he was ill. Mrs. Sarrott went to him and found that he was deathly sick. He said that he had been eating grapes that made him sick. He continued to grow worse and neighbors dropped in to see him. It was suspected that he had taken something which caused his illness, but he denied this to his wife. Under questioning of Henry Schuter he finally confessed that he had taken Paris green.

He had always been a faithful worker in the mines or to anything he could find to do and was seldom idle. The creeping of age though seemed to cause despondency. He realized that he could not work as formerly and this depressed him. He was contemplating moving to Columbus, where he could find something to do and be near his sons, who are employed there.

Frank Serrott was born in Greenup county, Kentucky, and had resided in Wellston about twenty-five years.
He is survived by a widow and five children, four sons and a daughter, George and Jess, of Columbus; John and Edward, of Indiana, and Mrs.
Cora Miller, of Zanesville.

Head of N. & W. System Just as Successful Evading Reporters as Running Big Railroad

(BY SIDNEY SPRANGE)

A. C. Needles, president of the N. & W. was due in Portsmouth at 3:25, yesterday afternoon.

"Go see him," said the city editor "and get a personal interview."

Ernie Ford was pressed into service and started out on three cylinders for the railroad station. In came the train with the president's private car on the rear. Down the track we went and braved the dignified porter who was sweeping the back platform.

"Is Mr. Needles there?" we asked.
"No'm."
"Is this Mr. Needles' car?"
"Yes'm."

"Where is Mr. Needles?"
"Well, lady, Mr. Needles got off up the tracks. Just you watch an' you all will see him, come a-walkin' down the tracks."
Railroad presidents walking down the tracks didn't seem very plausible so we kept our eyes on the car. When it was towed out of the station we piled into the Ford again and went in pursuit.
Up on the viaduct where a good view of the tracks was afforded!
Still the private car moved eastward. Lizzie pursued, while we spent our time watching for a president walking the tracks, and made up movie titles such as "Last a Railroad President,"
"The Pursuit of a Pullman," "Nailing Needles, and other equally clever efforts."

Out to the general offices. No president. One worker there said he had been there fifteen years but had never seen him.
Out to the east crossing, no president. Over the old golf links on the chance that he might be inspecting that property. But no president. A prominent lawyer who had planned to play golf with him gave up and returned to his office. Still we pursued.
But no president.

And we had planned such a lot of things to ask him: All about Portsmouth's new station, the elimination of grade crossings, what the N. & W. is going to do with the old golf course, whether he'd rather play golf or run a railroad, how his chef on his private car cooks oysters, and a vast lot of other important things. But so far as we know the president spent his afternoon in the maze of tracks in the railroad yards far from feminine reporters and other pests.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY; A HEARTY WELCOME AWAITS YOU

Church bells Sunday morning herald the glad tidings of peace, joy and love. The United States flag will ring out their peal of "Go to Church."

Melodious chimes of great cathedrals in the cities sing their urgent message sweetly, "Go to Church."

Blooming bells out in the countryside, where the call must carry far over the hills and valleys, ring out "Go to Church."

For October 5 has been set as "Go-to-Church Sunday" for the entire nation, and in the thousands of places of worship, great or small throughout the land, pews will be well filled Sunday as the American people respond to the appeal to turn aside from thoughts of business and politics and the daily grind to turn to ward God and his plan for one day out of seven to be devoted to rest and worship.

The Ohio Council of Churches has issued the following appeal to every church member in Ohio:

"Go to church Sunday. See that your fellow-member is impressed with the importance of attending on this day. Invite your non-member friends to go with you. Continue this attendance and join wholeheartedly in the evangelistic work of the month to come."

Baptist Minister to Discuss Prize Fight

At the opening of the service on Sunday night just before the sermon in the First Baptist church, Gallia and Walter streets, Pastor H. Stewart Tillis says he will make a few remarks regarding the insult that he says is being thrust upon the decent citizens of this fair city by the "Perdue-Blair fight" next Monday night at the Winter Garden. He says that such a barbarous, uncivilized, savage procedure should never be permitted to be pulled off. He says he will ask the people to consider why Huntington, W. Va., spent the whole month out of her month and why the people there are so happy and let it go on. # Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Will some one of your kind readers give me the name and address of a Gypsy fortune-teller through your column? A DISCUSTED HUSBAND

A fortune teller can't straighten out your marital troubles, or tell you anything for sure, so the best thing you and your wife can do is to get together and agree to live happy ever afterwards. Life's too short to quarrel all the time.

Dear Miss Wise—I wish you would print in the paper something that will take peach stains out of a silk dress.

A FRIEND.

Boiling water will remove fruit stains.

Dear Dolly—I want to know who the inspector is that goes around to the stores and bakeries. We have some stores in our community that are not fit for people to go in. They have cats lying around on the things they sell, and they have rats running over the bread and other eats. They also leave things uncovered while they sweep and they naturally get millions of germs on them. They have some of the dirtiest stores in captivity in this community and I was wondering who I could report them to. They have got to clean their places up or answer to the law.

N.B.C.

There are enough clean and sanitary stores in this community to are ruining my business.

A MOTHER OF SIX

If you are trying to make an honest living for your six children, I think the neighbors who are meddling into your affairs should be arrested. I hope, however, that you are not doing anything that will give them room to talk about you.

Dear Dolly—Please tell me the beginning and the end of what was called the Old National Road. It ran through Ohio, but it did not start in Ohio. Anything you can tell me about this road will be appreciated.

OLD TIME READER

The Old National Road ran from Cumberland, Md., to Vandalia, Illinois. The road entered Ohio in Belmont county opposite Wheeling, Va., thence to Cambridge, Guernsey county, Zanesville, Muskingum, through Madison county to Spring field and thence through the northwestern parts of Montgomery, and Preble counties. The construction of this road was started in 1808. Can you remember that far back?

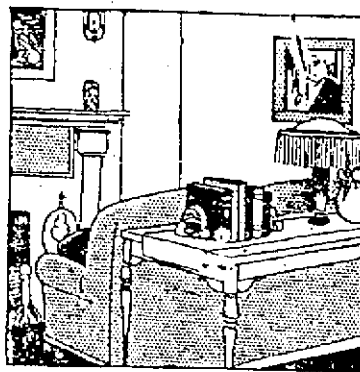

Dear Miss Wise—Have you a recipe for peach honey? If so, please print it as soon as possible.

A HOUSEWIFE

I have no recipe for peach honey, but I should think you could make it like guinea honey, a recipe for which was in yesterday's paper.

HOME FURNISHING

Change Books For Color

An easy way to provide the necessary touch of color in any part of a room is to take books with bindings of that color from the book case and place them on the table calling for it. With such books should also go other colored bindings, so that the group on the little table may not appear too artificial.

The Woman's Literary Club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. F. Royce, 1421 Second street, with Mrs. John Rottinghaus and Mrs. Albert Zoellner as assisting hostesses. As it was the first meeting of the year, reports were given by the secretary and treasurer. The book committee was ordered to place in the Public Library a book to the memory of deceased members, the late Mrs. Caroline Gilbert. The secretary was instructed to send notes of sympathy to the relatives of the late Mrs. N. W. Evans and the late Mrs. Mary Barton, who were former members of the club.

The retiring president, Mrs. Es. Laidzner, made a very pleasing farewell address, thanking the club members for their courteous treatment of her as president and also for their assistance given to her in the performance of the duties of her office. She then introduced the new president, Miss Kate Vignas, who made a short address.

The following program was then rendered:

Talk—"The Development of the Short Story and Novel"—Miss Ruth Preston.

Reading—An Early Short Story from Washington Irving, "The Devil and Tom Walker"—Mrs. Mattie Jordan.

Vocal Solo—"The Song of the Soul"—Mrs. Winifred Bennett, accompanied by Mrs. Horace Belmont.

Mrs. Agustin Chestnut was received as a new member of the club. Mrs. Sarah M. V. of Lucasville, Mrs. Fred Hart of Vandalia and Mrs. James Thompson of this city were guests of the club.

Refreshments of ice cream and cakes were passed by the hostesses. The officers chosen for the new year include: President, Miss Kate Vignas; vice-president, Miss Ruth Preston; secretary, Mrs. Es. Laidzner; treasurer, Mrs. Leonard Al. Wheeler; executive board, Mrs. Rose McCormick, Mrs. Nelson Baker, Miss Kate Vignas and Miss Ruth Preston.

The members of the Pastime Club enjoyed a meeting Thursday with Mrs. George Pocher, 1911 Eighth street. Several games of five hundred were played, after which refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. Floyd Shumaker, Mrs. E. Banks, Mrs. C. H. Weber, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. Alfred Messmer, Mrs. J. C. Col. Mrs. Earl Pocher and Mrs. Joan McDaniels.

Mooshoort Legion will meet Tuesday evening in their hall at the corner of Third and Washington streets. All members are asked to be present.

Owing to the death of the late Mrs. N. W. Evans, the meeting of the Portsmouth Reading Club, of which she was a life-long member, has been postponed from Monday until Tuesday evening, when the members will have dinner at the country home of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Williamson on Brush Creek.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:15 at the home of Mrs. J. B. Lykins, 1729 Dutchess street, with the following named ladies as assistant hostesses: Mrs. Spencer Cole, Mrs. Bruce Hoobler, Mrs. W. L. Hitchcock, Mrs. C. W. Morrow and Mrs. G. D. White.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. L. Forest have moved here from East Rich street, in Columbus, and are located in the W. A. Harber property at 623 Front street.

Mrs. Mollie Groh of Detroit, Mich., is visiting with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Mathews on Eleventh street, and Mr. George Brumond of Court street. She will also visit with her sister, Mrs. May Freyer, of Ripley. Mrs. Groh is enjoying her first visit here in twenty-three years.

Mrs. Emma Hammond of Minford is visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Harsha of 421 Vinton street.

Richard Herms, Roy Zetler, William McMillan and Douglas Hughes were guests last night at the home of Howard Zetler, Twenty-Third street. They left early this morning for Oxford to visit with Portsmouth boys and girls who are attending school there, and this afternoon attended P. H. S. game at Hamilton. Tonight and tomorrow they will spend with relatives in Cincinnati.

Jack never did know just how long he had been sleeping. But it must have been for many hours, for he suddenly opened his eyes when the plane seemed to give a slight jerk and then bump along. The little adventurer rubbed his eyes and then realized that they had landed on the ground.

"Well, I guess we are in India," shouted the aviator, when he turned and saw that Jack was awake. Then he asked, "Where is your pet monkey?" Jack then discovered that Flop was nowhere to be seen. He began to get frightened, when he heard a squeal and saw the animal out on the ground.

The aviator started to laugh. "What's the matter?" asked Jack. "Oh," replied the aviator, "I guess Flop was mighty glad to get down out of the air." At this moment Jack saw a lot of dust flying near at hand. "Someone is coming over this way," he shouted. "Wonder who it is." (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barker

A TRIP ON THE BLACK NIGHT-MARE

"Did you see a gnome called Tweeknose?" asked Nancy to change the subject.

Back from Mars to the Moon went Snuggles and the Twins on the white horse started along the Milky Way to the star called Venus.

"Well, did you find Tweeknose and the lost sleepy sand?" asked the Dream Maker Man when they arrived.

"No, he wasn't on Mars," said the Twins. "We looked everywhere."

"Well, then," said the wise old Dream Maker Man, "we'll have to look some more. It's almost moon-up down on the earth and the sleepy sand simply must be found."

"I should say so," said the poor Sand Man who was getting discouraged and a little nervous.

"Cheer up. We'll find it," said the Dream Maker Man heartily. "Twins, you may go with my second son, Snuggles, on his black night-mare, to look for the lost sleepy sand. Perhaps Tweeknose has gone to Venus. You might have a look there."

"Oh, do go as fast as you can," begged the poor Sand Man who was really at his wit's end and knew what to do. "Tweeknose must be somewhere."

"Perhaps he's gone down to the earth to put the babies to sleep himself," said Nick.

"Little hope of that," sighed the Sand Man. "I know him too well, the rascal! Time and again I've just gotten a kiddy to sleep when along he'd come and give its nose a tweek and wake it all up again. Then he'd jump out of the window and laugh and laugh on his way back to Gnomeland—as though it was funny!"

"Come on, if you are going," cried Snuggles, jumping up on his black night-mare and sitting well forward to make room for the Twins.

As soon as they were seated, Nancy in the middle and Nick next, the magic horse started along the Milky Way to the star called Venus.

Club-a-lub, club-a-lub, club-a-lub! went the black mare's hoofs as she galloped through the sky.

At last the Twins and Snuggles came to Venus.

"Tap, tap, tap!" went Snuggles on the great gate in the wall.

"What's there?" asked a voice. "And what do you want?"

"We're messengers of the Sand Man and we want the bag of sleepy sand," said Snuggles.

"Say the multiplication table backwards up to ninety," said the voice, and I'll open the gate if you get it right. We're very particular about the people we let in. If you're not good in arithmetic, we don't want you. It's a law of—"

But he got no further. "Jimmy Jimmy!" said Nick quickly and instantly the door opened and the horse started ahead.

"The charm had worked again. The people of Venus were even queerer than the green beards of Mars. Their chin whiskers were made of shavings that hung in long curls."

"Did you see a gnome called Tweeknose?" asked Nancy to change the subject.

"A nose called Tweeknose? No, I didn't," said Shaving Beard. "Whose is it?"

Snuggles and the Twins rode on without telling him. There had been too much talking already.

CAMERAGRAMS

IT'S LUNCH TIME IN THE SETTER FAMILY. "Lady" and "Beas," age 4, a thoroughbred Llewellyn Setter, recently gave birth to the largest litter of pups in the record of the American Kennel Association. Fourteen of 'em. They're a hungry crew, their mother complains.

HE FOOLED THE GIRLS. Dudley Read of Tampa, Fla. (left), received a prize at a "smallest foot contest" in his state. He wears—now set this index—a 2 1/2 size on an "X" last. Women contestants were rather dumbfounded. Note the dainty feet of Mr. Read.

HARVARD GETS DOWN TO REAL WORK. Meaning football, of course. The "X" on squad is out to capture all honors this season. This picture shows members of the squad bucking a passed timber. It's great fun and limbers up the muscles which have been rather idle through the winter and summer.

PLAY BALL! This is the way President Coolidge tosses out baseballs when he "starts" the play in the capital. He might do it again in the world series. He is very fond of the national game. The question is: Would Babe Ruth have the heart to knock a homer against Pitcher Coolidge?

HIS BIG CHANCE. Walter Johnson, star pitcher of the Wash. Nationals, has waited many years to show his wares in a world series. Here Johnson is shown with his little daughter. She looks more worried than her dad, doesn't she?

STORY WITHOUT WORDS. Yes, the young lady in the picture is getting an automatic shine. It's quite the rage in San Francisco, where the photo was taken. It saves the time of a regulation shine to say nothing of the risk of bearing one's shiner getting on and off the shining-parlor chairs.

CHILDREN SUFFERING from rickets, certain types of convulsions, malnutrition and various forms of tuberculosis have been much benefited by light rays from machines now in operation in the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital.

HOME AGAIN! Donald MacMillan, famous explorer, is back from a long stay in the polar region north of Greenland. This photo was taken aboard the little schooner "Howdoin," the vessel used by the explorer and his hardy band of adventurers.

A LONG SWIM. Miss Lillian Harrison, now training in Calais, France, will try to swim the English Channel to Dover. Miss Harrison holds many long distance titles in the Argentine, her native country.

Two Cars Stolen, One Is Recovered; Arrests are Made

Two boys giving their names as Lester Lynn, 17, of 1300 Kenyon street, and George Harr, 18, East End, were arrested this morning in Chillicothe on a charge of investigation. The car which they had in their possession is a stolen car police say. Chillicothe officials learned that the car, a Ford coupe, had been stolen last night from Harley Couler, of 1225 Linden avenue. After questioning the boys they confessed to stealing the car. Chillicothe officials say.

Lynn stated that Couler kept his car in his step father's garage at 1300 Kenyon street, and that he and the Harr boy waited until it was in the garage last night and then took it. Captain Lee Stutzman and Traffic Officer Charles Clowe, accompanied by Couler left this afternoon for Chillicothe to bring the boys back here where charges will be filed against them. The police are also looking for another Ford car stolen last night from Albert Isom, of Gallia pike. The car was stolen from in front of his home.

Buick Masters and Ironton Clash in North End Sunday

The MacDonnell Buick Masters are all set for their big game with the Ironton Panthers and will give them a real tussle when they clash on the gridiron at Sixteenth and Findlay streets.

The local squad has been practicing regularly and expect to trim the Panthers. The Ironton players will disport themselves in new "mules." Play starts promptly at 2:30.

Returns To City; Faces Theft Charge

Albert Norton, 38, was taken into custody by the police last night on a warrant charging him with larceny in connection with the alleged theft of fishing tackle valued at $38 from Albert Gerlach.

The alleged theft occurred two years ago and Norton left the city. He was picked up by the officers a few hours after he returned. The defendant will be given a hearing in Municipal court Monday, no session being held today in account of the absence of Judge Sprague who is in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., October 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Governor Donahay, who has as yet arranged no speaking tour in the interest of his campaign for reelection, came from comparative retirement last night to make two speeches in Columbus, in

Straw Vote Results in Portsmouth

First results tabulated and published in the Cincinnati Enquirer's straw vote taken in Portsmouth and published in Saturday's Enquirer show the Republicans in the lead for both national and state offices.

But a small portion of the Portsmouth vote was printed in today's paper. The vote taken at the Portsmouth Stove and Range plant and on the west side of Chillicothe street from Fourth to Sixth gave Coolidge 42 votes; John W. Davis, 9, and La Follette 3. Two Republicans stated they had changed their vote to the Democratic party since last election. Davis for governor received 37 votes and Donahay 11, and two Democrats announced they had changed to the Republican state ticket. For attorney general Coolidge received 26 votes and Morrow 9. No changes were recorded.

The women's vote was taken at the First National Bank, the Portsmouth Stove and Range Co., Bragdon Dry Goods company and the west side of Chillicothe street from Fourth to Sixth. This district gave Coolidge 21 votes, Davis 10 and La Follette 2. For governor, Davis received from the women 17 votes and Donahay 12, and for attorney general the vote was even, Crabbe receiving 13 and Morrow 13.

both of which he assailed Harry L. Davis, his Republican opponent, and pointed out the accomplishments of his own administration.

A "blindly parallel" to be used by Democrats during the remainder of the campaign made its first appearance last night. The "parallel" is a comparative statement of the record of the Donahay and Davis administrations. These figures show the Davis administration to have expended a much greater amount than has been spent under the Donahay regime, with the Davis administration realizing lesser results.

Among the items listed in the statement as expenditures was one for armed guards at the executive mansion. The "parallel" shows Davis to have spent $5,400 for this purpose, while Donahay had no such expense. It also lists an amount of $244 for long distance telephone calls at the governor's mansion under Davis as compared with three dollars spent in this manner by Donahay. The statement also shows Davis spent $8,775 at his inaugural while Donahay spent $100.

THE ENVY OF EVERY YOUNGSTER IN TOWN. Billy Craig, mascot of the New York Giants, the National League champions for 1924, pictured at the Polo Grounds, with Jimmy O'Connell, John McGraw's $75,000 center fielder. Billy says he's the happiest kid in the world to be mascot of McGraw's tenth pennant-winning outfit.

CINCINNATI, O., October 4.—(By the United Press.)—The jury which tried Joseph A. Reis, vice president of the American Glass and Baking Company, on a charge of manslaughter, resumed deliberations this morning, having failed to reach an agreement and being locked in their room late last night after 20 hours' deliberation. The jury took the case at 4:20 Thursday afternoon. Reis is charged with manslaughter as the result of his automobile having run up the sidewalk where it struck and killed two little girls and injured a third last September.

Hank Gowdy and Irish Meusel, representing the Giants had called on Commissioner Landis last night for information as to how they could proceed against Ban Johnson, president of the American league, who had said that they Giants share the two kicked out of baseball, had been implicated in the scandal. They could not find Landis. Gowdy said they would like to have had a statement from Landis exonerating the team from the charges made by Johnson and Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh club.

Dreyfuss arrived this morning, instead of firing the promised barrage, he said he "had nothing on his chest" and was here to see a couple of ball games. "If anybody wants to start something, I'm here," he said.

Walter Johnson was given a big hand when he stepped to the plate for batting practice and he obliged by driving one into the stands. The Giants got a little applause when they came upon the field. They acted self-conscious, Gowdy, Snyder and they Giants shared to friends in the stands. It seemed to be a very much subdued team. The Giants wore their road uniforms of gray.

When the Giants took the field for batting practice the band played "The Sidewalks of New York," the New York anthem and there were cheers. McQuillan, Bentley and Neft hit with the regulars when they were taking batting practice. McGraw didn't arrive until after one o'clock and he sat in civilian clothes on the bench. Photographers dragged him out to pose with Hugh Jennings, his first lieutenant.

Movie Photographers Take Players. The President and Mrs. Coolidge were late in arriving and movie photographers used their box from which to film the crowds in the stands. There were many beautiful girls to the square foot of celluloid in those seats as in a Mack Sennett comedy, but furs, not bathing suits were in order.

An hour before game time there were 18 ball players and 107 photographers on the field. The Nationals were cheered every time they touched the ball in batting practice, but when the Giants came in the park there was complete silence at first. One fan yelled, "Hi, Gowdy," and Gowdy to the lanky New York catcher appeared, and Hank grinned and waved.

Before the game Walter Johnson was presented with a loving cup, as long as his arm. Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, George Sisler, manager of the St. Louis Browns and the one and only Babe Ruth appeared on the field and had their pictures taken with McGraw. They are heavy literary experts for the series.

Even Returned the Ball. Washington fans were letting nothing rob them of the full glory of their first championship. Never were spectators so enthusiastic or so generous. This is hard to believe, but, honestly, they threw back the baseballs batted into the stands during batting practice. As soon as the park opened, scandal talk gave way to the first real baseball conversation that had been heard in three days.

Then the police band was replaced by an army band in gorgeous new uniforms in blue-gray coats and white trousers and a military march sent a thrill through the stands. A company of marines marched around the field behind the band.

Barry Harris must have wondered if he had succeeded as a ball player or a movie star. He hadn't a minute to himself before game time, being pulled this way and that by photographers.

A handsome Lincoln limousine, a big brother to the thousands of Drovers parked outside, was driven on the field and around past the stands to be presented to Mrs. Walter Johnson who had a seat with two of her children right behind the presidential box.

Ten minutes before game time Walter Johnson came out to warm up for the Senators. And Neft went out alone for the Giants. The Giants lined up in military formation and in front of the dugout dugouts grouped in front of the first street box to receive the presidential party.

President Throws First Ball. President and Mrs. Coolidge arrived at their box in the grand stand five minutes before 2 o'clock. Mrs. Coolidge was attired in a white dress with short sleeves and a large white hat. Stanley Harris, manager of the Washington team brought out a new ball for the president to throw in. Before this ceremony, however, the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and 40,000 spectators in the stands stood with bared heads at attention.

Harris shook hands with Mr. Coolidge, who examined the ball and posed for photographers with his right arm raised. The umpires grouped themselves around calling for them to throw the ball. He made a short pitch. The veteran Connolly jumping into the air and catching the ball with one hand.

After a conference with the umpires about ground rules, the Senators took their positions on the field and Neft and Johnson warmed up to the very last minute and both seemed to be in good form. Johnson went to the dug-out before taking his place in the box and all players gathered around him and gave him some vigorous back slapping. A tremendous cheer went up when Johnson took the mound for his first world series game.

The park was practically filled when the Senators took the field for infield practice. Nick Altrock became serious for a moment and hit them to the infielders. Loads of flowers were carried on the field and given to the Senators while the Giants looked on without enthusiasm. They never had been handed out automobiles and flowers by their New York admirers.

Then the police band was replaced by an army band in gorgeous new uniforms in blue-gray coats and white trousers and a military march sent a thrill through the stands. A company of marines marched around the field behind the band.

Barry Harris must have wondered if he had succeeded as a ball player or a movie star. He hadn't a minute to himself before game time, being pulled this way and that by photographers.

A handsome Lincoln limousine, a big brother to the thousands of Drovers parked outside, was driven on the field and around past the stands to be presented to Mrs. Walter Johnson who had a seat with two of her children right behind the presidential box.

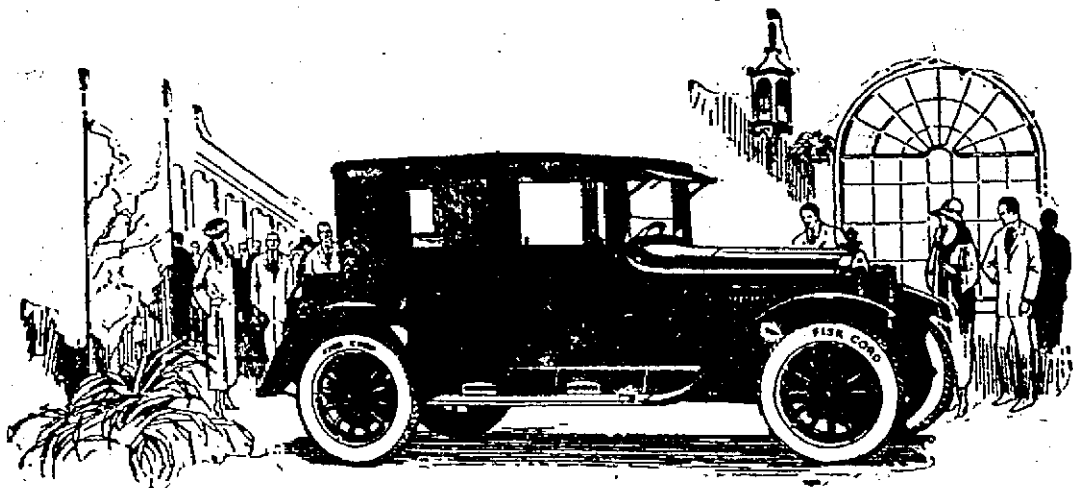

Ten minutes before game time Walter Johnson came out to warm up for the Senators. And Neft went out alone for the Giants. The Giants lined up in military formation and in front of the dugout dugouts grouped in front of the first street box to receive the presidential party.

President Throws First Ball. President and Mrs. Coolidge arrived at their box in the grand stand five minutes before 2 o'clock. Mrs. Coolidge was attired in a white dress with short sleeves and a large white hat. Stanley Harris, manager of the Washington team brought out a new ball for the president to throw in. Before this ceremony, however, the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and 40,000 spectators in the stands stood with bared heads at attention.

Harris shook hands with Mr. Coolidge, who examined the ball and posed for photographers with his right arm raised. The umpires grouped themselves around calling for them to throw the ball. He made a short pitch. The veteran Connolly jumping into the air and catching the ball with one hand.

No Vibration At Any Engine Speed

Willys-Knight with Lanchester Balancer ushers in a new day of enjoyable motoring.

The Willys-Knight is a revelation to motorists. It gives them a new conception of riding ease, a velvet smoothness of operation that surprises and delights.

Much was expected of the car. The ten years it has been in production have been years of progressive leadership. Willys-Knight conquered noise with its quiet sleeve-valve engine, conquered engine deterioration, conquered carbon and valve trouble, conquered the problems of lubrication, clutch, steering and every detail of mechanical construction. It seemed to approach the pinnacle of possibility.

But Willys-Knight still advances. This year it tops its record with another triumph—it solves the universal problem of engine vibration. The Lanchester Balancer, which eliminates vibration, introduces car owners to a new comfort and pleasure in driving.

The Willys-Knight with Lanchester Balancer awaits your inspection.

EX-FOLLIES BEAUTY

NAMED IN DIVORCE SUIT, ATTEMPTS LIFE
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 4.—Elsie Thomas, former Follies beauty, named in a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Violet Charlotte Boyle, wife of Jack Boyle, author, made two unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide today, according to the police.

Miss Thomas, who asserts she is Boyle's wife, but which claim is disputed by Mrs. Violet Boyle, was found unconscious from gas on the floor of her bedroom. A pulmotor was used to revive her. Some hours later, Boyle called police and said Miss Thomas had locked herself in a closet and was again attempting to die.

Mrs. Violet Boyle, in her suit against the author, alleged she is his wife, but that he had been living with the Follies girl for some months.

HUERTA, MEXICAN LEADER

TO QUIT PUBLIC LIFE
HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 4.—Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, is ready to retire from active public life, according to dispatches to Tribune, Spanish language newspaper, here today.

REPUBLICANS WILL

SWEEP NEW JERSEY

SENATOR TELLS COOLIDGE
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—President Coolidge received several visitors today bearing further messages of Republican gait in the campaign.

Senator Edge of New Jersey said the national ticket would sweep that state by an "overwhelming majority."

William P. Jackson, national committeeman from Maryland, told Mr. Coolidge there was "more than a fair chance" of Republicans capturing that state.

In his discussion with visitors today the President took occasion to denounce rumors and reports which had been unfounded calling attention that one had come to him as to his alleged connection with the indictment of a sheriff in Logan county, West Virginia.

Mr. Coolidge said he not only had not known of the indictment but he had no knowledge of the facts leading up to it or the persons involved.

GOVERNOR DEFENDS

HIS ADMINISTRATION

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—Harry L. Davis, Republican candidate for Governor, was tonight accused by Governor Donahue of spending $5,400 for armed guards at the executive mansion during his term of office.

The Governor's accusation was made at a Democratic ward meeting held at the home of Judge C. C. Williams.

Governor Donahue answered charges made against his administration by Mr. Davis by reading a comparative statement of the two administrations.

SAYS CRISIS NEAR IN BRITISH

POLITICS; FEARS FOR JAC.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(By the A. P.) "It certainly looks as though a crisis might come at any moment, but then in politics you can never tell, is the comment of former Premier Stanley Baldwin in referring to the position of the labor government in the face of recent developments. His note of caution is shared by many political observers who have watched beside the supposed death beds of previous governments which ultimately proved to be very much alive.

Most of the political writers, however, adopt the view that the government is bound to fall, if not on the conservative motion of course in the communist matter, then on the opposition to the Anglo-Russian treaty headed by the liberals. The communist case is based on the abandonment by the attorney general of criminal proceedings which had been brought against the netting editor of the Workers Weekly, a communist publication.

INVESTIGATE "DOPE RING"

CHARGE AMONG STUDENTS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—An investigation to determine whether a "dope ring" is active in the student body here was under way today, following the arraignment before United States Commissioner Wright of John S. Munro, an Ohio State University student, and Josephine H. Howard, on charges of selling narcotics. They were arrested late yesterday by federal agents, who seized $23 for quantity of drugs which the agents claim retail for about 90 cents.

Both Mrs. Howard and Munro furnished bond of $2,500 and asked for a continuance which was granted. Their hearing was set for Oct. 17.

RANTOUL, Ill., Oct. 4.—Ezra Meeker, 94 year old Oregon Trail blazer, on his way from Vancouver, Wash., to Dayton, Ohio, to attend the International air races with his pilot, Lieut. Oakley C. Kelly, landed at Clinton Field shortly after 4 o'clock and decided to spend the night here. They will leave tomorrow for Indianapolis and fly from there direct to Dayton.

POLICE REFUSED TO

SURRENDER GIRL WHO

FLED INSTITUTION

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Chief of Police Martin L. Sullivan today refused to surrender the officials of the George Junior Republic at Freeville, Madison Stantion, 19, who fled from the Republic Wednesday night and holed into police headquarters early Thursday morning her ankles shackled with heavy metal bands connected with a steel chain a foot long.

Refused to be taken upon the fact the girl was a voluntary citizen at the Republic and the authorities have no jurisdiction over sending her back. She has refused to return. Attached at the Republic today refused to confirm or deny charges made by the Stanton girl that she had been maltreated.

STUDENTS SLAM COLLEGE

TYPES; PROMPTLY FIRED

ALBION, Mich., Oct. 4.—"I wanted to attain a place in the literary world," Lawrence Albert Smale, late freshman at Albion College, made this explanation today for publication of "Maelstrom," a paper which jolted the collegiate body of Albion when it appeared Thursday. He was expelled—after all 300 issues had been grabbed up by the students and has left Albion for his home at Flint.

Excerpts from the magazine which aroused the ire of faculty and students, are:

"Mothers of Albion men need retain no great apprehension in the matter of conduct of their sons for Albion, The Mecca of Methodism, is quite the contrary—purity, honesty and a staidness are the rule. Gambling, dancing, drinking and drinking are prohibited."

"The man who will allow himself to be molded to the true fraternity type must learn to play poker, to shoot craps, get drunk at stag parties, raid the local theatres, abandon his studies and make tours of the vice districts."

On Jobs to Fit the Fellow

I'D LIKE TO DRIVE A MILK WAGON IF YOU THINK I COULD HOLD DOWN A JOB LIKE THAT

ALL SET FOR THE TOMATER TEST

Prof. Alex. Tunney has gone into psychology and is working out a scheme whereby he can tell what sort of a job or profession a fellow's fitted for. He says the trouble with the world today is that too many people are engaged in the wrong sort of work, and that too many important offices are filled by fellows who'd better be plowing or plumbin', or brick makin' or rummin' a grocery, or sellin' fruit trees. The professor says there's employment to fit the peculiarities of every man or woman, and that the great problem of the world is to get the fellows in the right office, or running for one, or who's tryin' to sell tornado insurance, or get him a mixin' concrete, or rummin' a street car, or doin' something he's cut out to do. He says the economic gain to the country "if he applied his plans work out, the professor's scheme embraces a number of tests. This is one of them: the reaction test — a fellow is placed in a light fourin' car on the expensive sort of a head down a residence street toward a school house at a rate of 35 miles an hour. The object is to see how quick he can read a slow down sign and translate it mentally and telegraph it to his foot. An absolutely exact count of the number of seconds which can be seen from the time the sign is put on the car to the time the fellow's foot comes up to the brake. If the subject's mind works fast it indicates that he's a good speculator. Another test is the slot machine test. The subject is given a few nickels and if he wins anything it's a sign he's a fast one. If he loses a good speculator. Then there's the corn shredder test that tests out one's accuracy and bump o' caution. If the subject survives a bunch of fodder with both hands intact it shows that he's capable of footin' with a buzz saw and would make an O. K. plumbin' man. The most ticklish test is the emotion try out. A dial that measures an' weighs the heart beat is screwed to the arm of the victim and connected up with his chest. Then the psychologist hits him in the nose with a ripe tomato. The subject's reaction is noted. The subject if possible — 't see if he niggers easily. Whether he does a good or bad job of answerin' shows up immediately on the little dial an' the psychologist has a workin' clue. If he gets mad an' excited easily his emotions are just under the skin an' he'd make a poor dry goods clerk, but if he's slow an' his emotions are in his stomach an' he'd make a dandy fireman. One o' the most ingenious tests is called the chair test. A kitchen chair an' a large, soft leather hotel chair are placed in a room. The subject is taken to the door o' his room an' told to go in an' take a seat on the big, easy hotel chair. The psychologist runs across the street for some smokin' tobacco. If the subject sits down on the kitchen chair it's quite evident he hasn't looked for something soft like smoke inspector, or census taker, an' if he takes the big, easy hotel chair there's no mistakin' the fact that he's intended for something easy an' remunerative, an' if he sets down in the hotel chair an' puts his feet on the kitchen chair it's a never failin' indication that he's a born ruler of men an' would make a polistakin' captain o' bell boys, or a politician 't be reckoned with.

Jewelry Taken In Raids Missing; George Blair of This City Is Arrested

IRONTON, O., October 4.—George Blair, whose home is in Portsmouth, yesterday furnished bond in Mayor Norris' court at Coal Grove for his appearance to answer to charges of receiving stolen property from the mayor's office at Proctorville. His trial was set for October 11th. Blair was arrested while at work with a section crew below Portsmouth.

The charge against Blair is said to have resulted from the disappearance of property taken in raids. Blair at the time was employed as a special officer at Proctorville, working with P. E. Gordon. The officers last August raided several stock drink stands and confiscated a number of punchboards with their prizes, consisting of watches, rings, pistols, etc. These were boxed up and stored in the mayor's office, from where they subsequently disappeared. Blair and Gordon had been sleeping in the building and suspicion was directed toward them. Officials report that they have since learned that rings were given to two Atlanta girls and that one of the missing articles were pawned in West Virginia. Warrants for the arrest of both Blair and Gordon were issued by Mayor Norris of Coal Grove, upon affidavit of Marshal Jesse Rorger of Proctorville.

BRINGING UP FATHER

ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA

by W. Robert Foran

© 1924 N.E.A. Service Inc.

BEHIND HERE TODAY

Robert Foran, newspaper correspondent, accompanies the Theodore Roosevelt expedition into Africa in 1909. They arrive at Mombasa, the "gateway to British East Africa," and then make the railroad journey to their first camp on the game-crowded Kapiti Plains.

After a wonderfully successful shooting trip to the Sotik country, the expedition camped for some hunting at a place called Sogai. After several other trips they invade the game Nyero elephant country and meet with more good sport. They make their last long safari into the Kasu Gusho country and along the banks of the Nyoi River. Now they return to Londiani.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Heller was the next to come in to Londiani. He was also in fine fettle and greatly browned by the tropical sun. He was, as usual, calmly indifferent to all the bustle that was going on around him, and was only waiting for the arrival of the native porters to see to the proper preservation of a fine roan antelope which had been recently shot.

Shortly after this the long stream of porters came winding across the plain toward the railroad depot, looking from the distance for all the world like a string of ants.

At their head, waved the huge American flag that never had left the expedition during all its many journeys through the wilderness.

A number of these happy black children were blowing lustily on long made out of pieces of wood, bamboo and even goat's horns. Others were chanting a safari song in praise of Bwana Mkwaba! (The great chief).

Their hilarity and noise were a certain sign that they had enjoyed their long safari in the Kasu Gusho and were yet glad to be back in civilization once more. That evening they were to go by train to Nairobi, where they would be paid off and discharged.

Colonel Roosevelt had arranged with Taiton to give each man a special cash bonus for his faithful service. Their pay, which they had allowed to accumulate, would soon all be spent in useless trifles in the Indian bazaar at Nairobi; and then, stoney-broke but content, they would be ready to go out again as porters with another hunting safari. They are indeed happy and inconspicuous children—these African safari porters.

Earlier on Colonel Roosevelt rode in on Tranquility, his faithful and favorite horse. He was accompanied by his sals (grooms) and two gun-bearers.

Naturally, my first thought was to see how he had borne the strain of the long safari, especially in view of the outrageously lying report that had been circulated about his alleged death and ill-health. No one could possibly have looked in better health. He was very browned, and seemed to be most remarkably robust.

He told with considerable enthusiasm of the wonderful exhibition which he had witnessed at Mr. A. E. Hoey's farm at Sirgoi. Hoey had gathered together a number of Nandi warriors, who had then shown the Roosevelt expedition his spearhead house. He had been very lucky to see such a thrilling spectacle. A few white men have been so fortunate.

Severely Nandi warriors in their full war paint and armed only with their narrow and long spears had provided the entertainment.

When a warrior spears a lion, he is permitted to become a leader of the fighting sections of the tribe and may wear a head-dress made from the mane of the slain lion. He is then allowed to lead a file of warriors when on the warpath. They are naturally very keen on the honor, and display amazing courage in spearing lions.

"I will tell you all about it later on," said Colonel Roosevelt. "For it's a pretty story."

He broke off suddenly as he caught sight of Cunningham, who had been in a freight van loading stores and specimens.

"Hello—R. J.—Hall gani weve? (How are you?) he shouted, and then ran forward eagerly with outstretched hands to greet Cunningham.

As they shook hands, and when the smiling Roosevelt affectionately patted Cunningham on the back, it was easy to see how great was the love and esteem the colonel had for his black-headed and efficient guide and safari manager.

The loads of the expedition were quickly placed on the train, the horses entrained, and the porters were ready to climb aboard. Before they did so, however, they all formed up on the platform before Colonel Roosevelt.

With Leslie Taiton as an interpreter, Colonel Roosevelt walked down that long line, shook hands with each native porter and thanked each one individually for his loyal service.

Then he made a short address to them, his words being translated into Kiswahili by Taiton, in which he told them that each would receive in Nairobi, in addition to the salary due to them, a cash bonus as a present from Bwana Mkwaba.

Thereupon the native porters gave three cheers for "Kingi ya Ameriki," and showed very unmistakably, in many ways peculiar to the African native, that they possessed a strong feeling of affection for Roosevelt.

They threw their hands in the air and danced like so many school children, and then began to sing a refrain in which were caught many expressions of their respect for the courage of Bwana Hoey's farm at Sirgoi.

To the sound of much cheering, the porters, armed as they were, they were all leaning out and waving their hands.

"Kwa heri, Bwana Mkwaba! (Goodbye, Great Chief)," came the distant shouting from the train. And then it passed from sight.

Colonel Roosevelt's face was sad when he turned away.

"They are really fine people," he said, softly. "I am really sorry to part with them."

SMITH CONFIDENT OF HIS ELECTION

ALBANY, N. Y., October 4.—(By the United Press)—"There's nothing to it."

That's the way Governor Smith talked today about the outcome of his contest with Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for the governorship.

The governor completed his speech of acceptance at noon today and tonight will be officially notified of his renomination at Schenectady along with the rest of his fellow candidates for office on the Democratic state ticket.

Smith indicated today that he will make a "hammer and tong" campaign in the state.

Stock Prices Lost Ground Week But Bond Quotations Held Firm

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Stock prices lost ground this week with public interest at low ebb and professional traders disposed to wait further indications of the trend of business and drift of political sentiment before extending their commitments. Bond prices held relatively firm with an offering of $50,000,000 Mexican government bonds by a comparatively unknown Texas banker and the prompt oversubscription of a $50,000,000 Penna railroad five per cent issue as the chief features.

Commodity markets far overshadowed the securities exchanges as the centers of speculative interest. A sensational buying movement in the grain market set May wheat to $1.40 a bushel, an advance of 30 cents over last Saturday, while May wheat was carried close to $1.54, a gain of 18 cents over last week. Heavy buying for the account of foreign customers was ascribed as the chief reason for the advance. Steel shares held relatively firm on Chairman Gary's announcement that September shipments and bookings were better than August and that further improvements was expected this month.

Finishing mills of the corporation were reported to be between 63 and 65 per cent of capacity. Equipments picked up on the announcement of heavy railroad orders, but reacted later.

Strength of many railroad shares reflected the record breaking car loadings for the third week in September, high current earnings and favorable merger developments. Low priced issues received stimulus from the inauguration of dividends on Erie, preferred which led a substantial advance among the southwestern carriers. Several of the eastern carriers lost ground.

Oil shares were adversely affected by extensive gasoline price cuts along the eastern seaboard although these issues declined later on reports of a further decrease in crude production. Several public utilities wanted to new heights although the local gas issues were freely sold on the announcement of new financing by the Brooklyn Edison company.

Motors were inclined to respond favorably to reports of increased sales. Several independent strong spots developed among the specialists. Montgomery Ward, Postum Cereal, St. Joseph Lead, Foundation Company, H. J. Morgan in London that satisfactory progress was being made in the German loan negotiations and that American experts predicted a successful flotation.

STOCK MARKET LOW BUT RECOVERS FROM WAVE OF SELLING

Bethlehem Steel, Nash Motors and Industrials Give Strength to Prices

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Rallying tendencies characterized today's stock market. Quelling prices were heavy on a continuation of yesterday's selling which was attributed to political developments, but most offerings were well absorbed and the market was not long in heading upward again. However, soft spots were not entirely eliminated, substantial recessions taking place in Illinois Central, International Paper and Kresge Department stores. Good buying was noted in the food, motor and public utilities issues, Cuyamaca Fruit, National Biscuit, American Winter Works, Virginia Railway and Power Jordan Motor, General Motors debentures, Pan American "B," Atlantic Refining, Famous Players, Dupont and St. Joseph Lead being among the many issues to sell a point or more above yesterday's final prices. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 350,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Reactionary price movements prevailed at the opening of today's market on a continuation of the selling inspired yesterday by political developments.

United States Steel common, American Can, Studebaker and several other popular industrials and rails opened fractionally lower. One block of 1,500 St. Paul preferred hands at 20, off 1/4. There were a few points of independent strength, United Railways investment preferred gaining 1/2 and Chesapeake and Ohio 1/4.

After the first batch of selling orders had been absorbed the general market began to rally with Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Steel, Pipp, Nash Motors, General Electric, American Car and Foundry and Sears Roebuck rising 1/2 to 2 points above yesterday's final quotations. Simmons company trading a new top at 29 5/8, while Chandler Motors fell one point to a new low at 32 5/8.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore broke three points and Stewart-Warner and Goodrich each lost one in the initial wave of selling. Foreign exchanges opened steady and quiet.

Grain Prices Make Substantial Gains

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK MARKETS

Stocks firm; St. Joseph Lead at new high. Bonds easy; foreign issues hold firm. Foreign exchanges steady; trade dull. Cotton firm; 100% of cold weather. Sugar lower; commission house selling. Coffee easy; realizing.

CHICAGO MARKETS

Wheat strong; bullish cables. Corn firm; quotations unfavorable weather. Cattle steady. Hogs mostly higher.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Despite a low opening today, wheat soon scored material gains in price. Southwells and other unfavorable weather conditions in the Canadian Northwest had a bullish effect on the market as being likely to delay the Canadian crop movement and to harm the quality of receipts. The selling movement which was much in evidence yesterday and which brought about the initial decline today, seemed quickly to lose force. After opening 1/2 to 3/4 off, December 1.45 to 1.45 and May 1.40 to 1.40, wheat advanced more than 2 cents above yesterday's finish.

The close was strong 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 net higher, December 1.48 1/4 to 1.48 3/4 and May 1.52 1/2 to 1.53. Corn steadied when wheat developed strength. Corn opening prices, influenced by summer weather, ranged from 1/2 to 1 1/2 lower with December at 1.00 to 1.10 but were followed by a rally that more than wiped out the losses.

The close was firm 3/4 to 1 1/2 net higher; December 1.11 1/2 to 1.12. Prospective export led to higher prices for oats. Starting unchanged to 1/2 up, December 50 1/2 to 50 3/4, oats ended a little and then advanced sharply.

Provisions were firmer, owing to a new upturn in hog values. CHICAGO GRAIN. CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Wheat, Dec. 1.48 1/4; May 1.52 1/2; July 1.39 1/4. Corn, Dec. 1.11 1/2; May 1.14 1/2; July 1.15 1/2. Oats, Dec. 50 1/2; May 51 1/2; July 52 1/2. Rye, Dec. 57 1/2; May 61 1/2; July 60 1/2.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK MARKETS

Stocks firm; St. Joseph Lead at new high. Bonds easy; foreign issues hold firm. Foreign exchanges steady; trade dull. Cotton firm; 100% of cold weather. Sugar lower; commission house selling. Coffee easy; realizing.

CHICAGO MARKETS

Wheat strong; bullish cables. Corn firm; quotations unfavorable weather. Cattle steady. Hogs mostly higher.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Despite a low opening today, wheat soon scored material gains in price. Southwells and other unfavorable weather conditions in the Canadian Northwest had a bullish effect on the market as being likely to delay the Canadian crop movement and to harm the quality of receipts. The selling movement which was much in evidence yesterday and which brought about the initial decline today, seemed quickly to lose force. After opening 1/2 to 3/4 off, December 1.45 to 1.45 and May 1.40 to 1.40, wheat advanced more than 2 cents above yesterday's finish.

The close was strong 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 net higher, December 1.48 1/4 to 1.48 3/4 and May 1.52 1/2 to 1.53. Corn steadied when wheat developed strength. Corn opening prices, influenced by summer weather, ranged from 1/2 to 1 1/2 lower with December at 1.00 to 1.10 but were followed by a rally that more than wiped out the losses.

The close was firm 3/4 to 1 1/2 net higher; December 1.11 1/2 to 1.12. Prospective export led to higher prices for oats. Starting unchanged to 1/2 up, December 50 1/2 to 50 3/4, oats ended a little and then advanced sharply.

Provisions were firmer, owing to a new upturn in hog values. CHICAGO GRAIN. CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Wheat, Dec. 1.48 1/4; May 1.52 1/2; July 1.39 1/4. Corn, Dec. 1.11 1/2; May 1.14 1/2; July 1.15 1/2. Oats, Dec. 50 1/2; May 51 1/2; July 52 1/2. Rye, Dec. 57 1/2; May 61 1/2; July 60 1/2.

N. & W. Tender Rolls Down Embankment Near Bluefield; Members of Crew Hurt

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., October 4.—Rolling to the bottom of a high embankment with the tender, of a Norfolk and Western railroad shifter engine, four members of the crew were injured on the Superior branch in McDowell county, O. W. Wood, of the Norfolk and Western railroad, was also sent to a hospital at Welch, Conductor W. H. Chandler and Fireman Joe Martin were able to return to their homes at Keystone, after receiving first aid assistance.

N. & W. Officials Inspect Local Improvements; Site for New Crossing on Offnere Street

High officials of the Norfolk and Western Railway Co., visiting Portsmouth yesterday, headed by President A. C. Needles, inspected the local yards and shops, and the site of the proposed underground crossing at Offnere and Tenth streets.

While no official statement was given out by the party, or by those connected with the road locally, it was intimated that the underground crossing project has the approval of the officials, and that the railroad will co-operate with the city and Portsmouth Public Service Co. in the construction of the crossing.

President Needles inspected the new water system, one of the most modern in the country; the increased yard facilities; and went over the old golf grounds, setting his approval. It is said, on plans whereby this tract will be a network of tracks in the near future, in keeping with a big policy of expansion.

Coal shipments over the N. & W. this season are the heaviest in the history of the road, it was stated; and a project of double tracking the division from Norfolk to Naugatuck, W. Va., is now under way. When this is completed, every division of the road will be double-tracked.

The party left early this morning, their private car being attached to the Cincinnati train. The officials will pass through here tonight at midnight, on their way east.

In the party with President Needles, Vice-President W. J. Jones, General Manager J. E. Crawford, Chief Engineer W. P. Willsey and H. C. Wedler, general superintendent of the Western Division arriving in a special car attached to No. 15, which arrived at 3:20 this afternoon.

Ironton Klan Is Involved in Suit

IRONTON, O., October 4.—Scott Wilson, Theodore Massie and E. Kyle Morrison, of Ironton; Emmanuel Erickson, of Chesapeake; Harry Jones, of Proctorville; T. T. Bass, of Harnesville, and the Ku Klux Klan, of Ironton, are named defendants in a suit for $1,037.70 filed in common pleas court Thursday by Earl S. Wolf, through his attorney, Joel H. Bibbee.

Mr. Wolf sets out in his petition that the defendants are indebted to him in the sum of $1,037.70 for merchandise in which there is no credit. He also asks interest on the money from November 21, 1923.

joined with the president in enlarging the part played by the First Division in the World War. Tracing the history of the division, "the first to enter France and the last to leave Germany," Mr. Coolidge recalled the division had 5,516 deaths and 17,000 wounded, its part in the battles at Sommeville, St. Mihiel and finally in the Argonne.

"The little that I can say," he added, "in commemoration of your division is but a slight suggestion of what is deserved. Every unit of the American army whether at home or abroad, richly merits its own full measure of recognition. They shrink from no toil, no danger and no hardship that the liberties of our country might adequately be defended and preserved."

Discussing the nation's obligations to its war veterans the president reiterated that its first duty was the care of the disabled and dependents.

For these he declared, the government has been most liberal, mentioning the hospitalization program, the rehabilitation fund, 4,000 veterans now and 50,000 others "who have completed these courses and have been placed in profitable employment" and the pension laws for widows and mothers.

The nation has appropriated about $400,000,000 for veterans of the World War and is spending about $100,000,000 annually for veterans of the Civil War, Mr. Coolidge said, but added that the "abiding honor which America bestows upon its loyal defenders cannot be measured in money."

Nation Recognizes Debt To Veterans

"The nation recognizes towards them all a debt which it can never repay, but which it will never repudiate," the president said.

"Standing to their credit will forever be an inexhaustible balance of gratitude, of honor and of praise."

In his discussion of international affairs Mr. Coolidge pointed to the accomplishments of the Dawes plan in promoting the revival of Europe which he said "lays a firmer foundation for industrial prosperity and a more secure peace."

"We want to see the allies paid," he continued, "we want to see Germany restored to a condition of productivity and progress under which she will be able to take up the burden of civilization."

"I am in favor of treaties and covenants conforming to the American policy of independence and to prevent aggressive war and promote permanent peace."

"We can not claim that under our institutions we have reached perfection but we are justified in saying that our institutions are the best for the promotion of human welfare that the incapacity of man has ever been able to devise. We cannot claim that our government is perfect, but we have the right to believe that it is the best that there is. We do not claim we have been able to discharge our full duty towards the other nations of the earth, but we have a right to believe that we have been the most effective agency in helping to restore Europe."

Urges Support of Constitution

"In this presence I am well aware there is no need to urge any support of the American constitution, but I cannot let this occasion pass without expressing my most strong and emphatic commendation for the reverence which your words and actions constantly express for the liberty-giving provisions of the fundamental law of our land."

"You want a free and fair opportunity to conduct your own business and make your way in the world without danger of being overcome by a government monopoly."

"When the government goes into business it lays a tax on everybody else in that business and uses the money that it collects from its competitors to establish a monopoly and drive them out of business. No one can compete. When the government really starts into a line of business that door of opportunity is closed to the people, it has always been an American ideal that the door of opportunity should remain open."

no attempt would be made to extend to the redeemed provinces the Law of Separations, which, of course, had not reached them, while they were under German rule.

Claim Herriot Breaking Contract

Now, however, Herriot has pledged himself to drop the embassy at the Vatican and to extend the disestablishment to Alsace and Lorraine. The result is an enormous protest in these lands, a protest violently echoed by all church sympathizers in France and lately eloquently expressed by the French cardinals. Twenty-one of twenty-three deputies from the two provinces sitting in the present French chamber have protested in the name of Alsace-Lorraine against what they regard as a break of contract.

The worst of this mess is that it will unmistakably give the Germans a new ground for hope of ultimately reconquering the Rhine and Moselle regions. The enthusiasm with which, after nearly fifty years, the people of Alsace and Lorraine welcomed the French army was a tremendous shock to the Germans. For the moment the conviction came that the Reichsland was in fact lost forever. And this impression was strengthened as one German traveler after another testified to the ardor with which the people strove to acquire the French language and adopt the French ways.

That any permanent increase of pro-German sentiment will result in Alsace and Lorraine seems hardly likely because the Germans have left a very bitter memory behind, bitter before the last war, intensified by German acts during the struggle when the inhabitants were treated as enemies and subjected to all sorts of hardships and minor persecutions. Yet for the moment there is manifest resentment which finds ready echo in Berlin.

A Menace To French Power in Europe

When Louis XIV acquired Alsace, partly by bargain, partly by conquest, nearly three centuries ago he showed himself wiser than his Republican successors, and to the end of the Monarchy Alsace was suffered to become French in its own way with the minimum of pressure. Of course, now, the present struggle is not actually the result of an effort to re-Gallicize Alsace, but the Alsatian detail is only a circumstance in a battle being waged between two sets of enemies in French politics.

In view of the very real damage which will be done to France both in Alsace and in the world generally, however, the friends of France everywhere must hope that this battle may be briefly terminated. Otherwise the repercussions, not merely in Strasbourg and Metz, but quite as much in Warsaw, Prague and Brussels, may seriously compromise the French situation in countries whose support of French policy in Europe is of utmost value to France, now and in the future.

tending the winning of the National League pennant by New York and the reports concerning the "gout" for the world's series is deliberately seeking to hush things up. That is no way to deal with the situation.

"The facts concerning this scandal must be brought out, I am going to see that it is done."

Landis looks to me like an irresponsible character. He hasn't the judgment in organized baseball of a ten-year-old."

Referring to his demand for the ousting of Stoneham and McGraw, Johnson said:

"Stoneham and McGraw—these are the names we hear every time there are reports of a scandalous nature cropping up in the game."

Johnson said he believed O'Connell when he said he was only the "gout."

Johnson has Detectives On Job

Johnson said he wanted to know who was behind the bribe offer.

"The players did not do it themselves," he said. "Suppose for instance that it would have been worth $150,000 to the Giants to get in the world series. Suppose some gamblers or some men associated with them, wanted to make sure they would win the pennant by getting into the world series. It seems probable that the same gang that wanted the Giants to win the pennant by crooked means would also try to corrupt the series itself. That's what we want to find out and you may rest assured that the men assisting me in this investigation are not going to be fooled, intimidated or called off."

Investigation also is being made of rumors of "a disgraceful situation" attending the 1922 world series, Johnson said.

"I am having these rumors investigated, and I expect that they will be taken up later in a more thorough fashion," he said.

Sands Says Everything Hasn't Been Told

SCRANTON, Pa., October 4.—(By the United Press)—Heinie Sands, Phil's infidel, who claims to have been offered a bribe to throw a game to the New York Giants, here on a last-minute trip today, said there are still a few important details of the bribe offer that have not been made public but that these must come from Judge Landis.

"So far as I am concerned, there will be nothing more said as to the bribe," Sands said.

industries. And with Mr. Smoot, chairman of the all important Senate finance committee, the industrial chiefs and farmers feel doubly protected. They will need it as there may be a drive against the tariff in the next couple of years if the insurgents and Democrats continue their coalition in congress.

Utah Doesn't Want Change

But while the tariff is a vital question in Utah, there are other reasons why this state is conservative. The Mormon people are not radicals. They believe in progress, but they do not want to chance anything for a certainty. In 1910 Utah voted Democratic by a substantial majority. The peace settlement was an influential factor, but basically the people of Utah were satisfied with the administration in power and did not clamor for a change. In 1920 as the vicissitudes of war developed an era of economic readjustment Utah joined the general clamor for change in the hope that things might grow better. The reconstruction period has left Utah with some scars, but by and large there is a steady improvement in agriculture as well as mining and precisely because the curve of improvement is upward, there is little disposition here to swap horses in mid-stream. Talking with various leaders here one gets the impression that the status quo will be maintained so far as Utah is concerned no matter what the rest of the nation does. The campaign thus far has excited little interest, but that is always the case until the last half of October.

Better Battle for Governor

The gubernatorial race offers opportunity for an upset, however, as the Democratic nominee, George Dern, has the support of the LaFollette group. It will be an interesting test of strength, incidentally, for if a Republican is elected governor of Utah, it will have to be by a majority of the votes cast.

A landslide for Coolidge in this state would help the state Republican ticket and the Republican managers really look for it. The president is not the popular figure that Taft or Harding or even Wilson was in this state, but the people have come to regard Calvin Coolidge as a safe and sound man, honest and conscientious. That kind of a public servant can, as a rule, count on the support of Utah, if he is in office, as against the pleas of another candidate. In other words all things being equal the party in power is the favorite and it takes a real issue to produce a change in Utah's electoral vote.

If there was any other business to interfere with the ball game, it was not mentioned.

Walter Johnson's first catcher, or at least the back stop with whom the Senators' ace won his greatest fame, "Gaby" who once caught a ball thrown from the top of Washington monument, was out early at Coliseum Park to show a party of friends how he did it.

There was "Zeh" Milan, former outfielder for Washington in the days when it was "last in the American League." There was Donie Bush, another former pilot of the Senators and Cliff Blankenship, the back stop who discovered Walter Johnson.

Old timers even remembered Phil Baker, who captained the Washington team when this outfit was in the Eastern League.

About the time that these and a hundred other old time favorites were getting around and hunting for their tickers, a handsome, dark haired, tall woman was fussing around with her husband's breakfast, over at the Arlington Hotel. It was her great day—Mrs. Walter Johnson's. Upon the muscular right arm of her husband of which she is so proud, depended the hopes of the Senators. And she said smilingly that she was sure he would win. The two and the visitors, the fans and the ball players, everybody seemed to have forgotten the late unpleasantness—the scandal in the Giants' ranks—and to be concentrating on baseball and the question of who would win today's game.

The trouble over the tickets was yesterday's trouble. The one big question mark in Washington today, on every one's lips, porters, taxi drivers, waiters, telephone girls, clerks and cobbler, was:

The judge rose late, however, and refused to reply to Ban Johnson's latest outburst.

Like most of Washington, Landis seemed to feel that the important thing today was the ball game.

"Can Walter beat 'em?"

And Washington's one answer was: "Sure!"

At 9 o'clock the bleacher gates were thrown open and the line which by this time extended ten blocks from the stadium, began to hunch forward and spread out over the gleaming new pine seats.

The sun began to break through the overhanging mists, bringing welcome warmth to those who had stood shivering in line throughout the night.

A parade of survivors of the First Division down Pennsylvania avenue, distracted the city's attention momentarily from baseball, but once this was over there was a rush from all directions to the park.

Even many fans who held reserved seats were so anxious not to miss anything that they showed up at the park early this morning and settled themselves contentedly to make a day of it.

In the larger hotels every one was asking "what has become of the scandal?"

Nobody seemed to know, although some of the Giant players who had been mentioned by Jimmy O'Connell in his story of the attempted bribery of Heinie Sand of Philadelphia, were around the hotel at which Judge Landis was staying.

There was some talk that they would demand further public exoneration at commissioners' hands before going in the series.

The judge rose late, however, and refused to reply to Ban Johnson's latest outburst.

Like most of Washington, Landis seemed to feel that the important thing today was the ball game.

AGREE IN DISAGREEING

PRESIDENT VAUCLAIR of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, it a protectionist, just out of general cussedness. He is a Republican because he appreciates the fact that elementarily the Republican party stands for aggregated wealth as against the mass of the people.

This is a sweeping arraignment of a fellow citizen, but Vaucclair foolishly exults in it.

Listen at him. In an interview he says: "This country's use of labor saving machinery has put American labor at lower wages above the need of tariff protection against the lower wages paid abroad. Nevertheless I favor a tariff wall so high that it will be impossible to see the sun in New York before 10 o'clock in the morning."

Vaucclair's company sells locomotives all over the world. No one ever hears of a foreign locomotive being brought to this country. So secure and arrogant is Vaucclair in the legal license of his company to pillage and plunder under protection, that he contemptuously disregards labor as concerned in the tariff at all.

President Thomas F. McMahon, of the United Textile Workers of America, agrees entirely with Vaucclair that the workers of this country do not need protection. Here is what he says:

"We have nothing to fear from foreign competition under a reduced tariff for cotton goods are produced here cheaper than in any other part of the world. They can't compete with us. In the great cotton centers of England, for instance, the weaver, at most operates only twelve looms. The general average runs from eight to ten per weaver of plain cloth. Here we operate from twenty-four to thirty-two looms."

But agreeing thus far with Vaucclair, McMahon disagrees totally with him on the other point, he wants the tariff reduced, not built up to an unclimberable wall.

There is this difference between the two, that makes their agreement and disagreement all the more striking. Vaucclair represents a company that employs a few thousand laborers and his business is to pay them as little as he possibly can. McMahon represents many thousands of laborers and his business is to get them all the pay he can.

Vaucclair's company has millions of dollars, set aside against a rainy day; McMahon's union sees its small reserve fund being steadily depleted, not by strikes benefits, but by the fact that thousands of members are unable to pay their dues because for more than six months the cotton mills have been running slack, or laid idle altogether.

But right here is the mockery of the situation: The tariff on cloths is higher than it has ever been up to 1921, and all cloths are at the peak prices of their manufacture.

If it had not been for two previous days of rain you never would have appreciated what unrivaled weather it is.

The Republicans of Iowa have ousted Senator Brookhart from the party because he wants Daves kicked off the national ticket. They have expelled him because he courageously spoke out in meeting what many of the brethren secretly hold should be done.

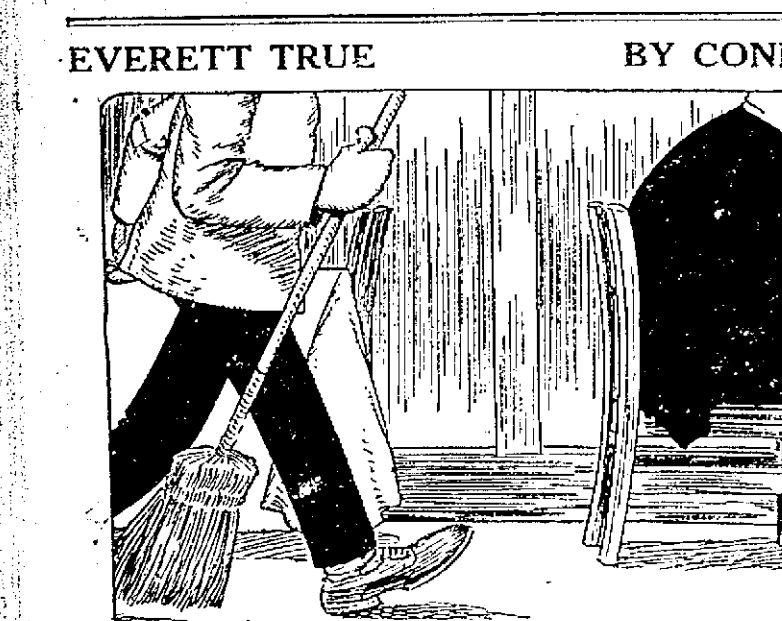

Because unseasonable weather is sharply shortening the corn crop and so bringing on high prices. Republicans are urging farmers to all vote for Coolidge. By the same process of reasoning why not charge Cautious Cal damages for sending the drought?

Every town is a small town at heart. Look how the villagers of Washington are cutting up over their winning team. Why even the president came out to shake hands with the team, for all the world, like the mayor of Podunk throwing out the ball on opening day.

No, we haven't the faintest idea where the Ohio river bridge is going to be located.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY G. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—In one mid-night club two young women in de-olite gowns were carried out in the arms of their male escorts. They were pale and unconscious from over-indulgence. The jazz band wailed attention. The head waiter smiled. Only a slight ripple of excitement resulted. New York is growing used to cafe swooning. It is a nightly thing in those haunts where lethal libations are served as liquor. Several jazz joints have nurses in the ante-rooms.

One old rounder described cafe liquor in explaining to his wife why he reached home at dawn. "The whiskey was so young," he said. "I had to sit up all night and rock it before taking a chance." The headlessness of New Yorkers in drinking anything but before them is astonishing.

Nobody asks or apparently cares what the brand is. If a quart of whiskey is served it is placed in a bottle that formerly contained ginger ale or table water. It may be made of shellac, vitrol and varnish but the cafe public pays $20 a bottle without question.

There is another story of a fellow in his cups who was told that a new brand of Broadway whiskey was being made from sawdust. "Fine," he cried. "I'm going to fight home now and drink the leg of a kitchen chair." A chemist bet a friend he could not get one drink of unadulterated whiskey in ten places his friend would select. They went from place to place and surreptitiously took samples back to the chemist's laboratory.

The chemist won. Each sample contained some sort of poison that if taken in his doses would have resulted in death. That is the way Broadwayites are laughing at prohibition and as is usual Broadway has the last laugh.

She is a woman in mid thirties. Cultured and beautiful. At the age of 8 in Switzerland she was given a little toy bear. It was her constant companion wherever she went, and years did not destroy her love for the toy. If the night grew chilly Bruno was wrapped in a shawl. She confesses her love for the toy was one of the contributing factors in a divorce from her husband. Today the bear is worn and fruzzed by constant handling. A button eye is gone. Recently a new mind tossed the toy in a refuse box. It was carried away. Frantic searches and the offer of a big reward did not restore it.

Perhaps most of us might venture a tentative giggle at the lady's silly attitude toward a toy. And yet very few of us that haven't some inanimate thing associated with past memories to which we cleave. I have a buckeye plucked from an Ohio tree too many years ago to recall. It is a relic of the old swamin' hole days, stone bruises and barn brigandage. It would grieve me to lose it.

A revue has a scene showing the window and revolving door entrance to a smart Fifth Avenue dressmaking shop. A chorus of shabbily dressed girls parade into the door and come out the other side in smart Rue de la Paix frocks while a comedian sings "In they go and out they come while some boob pays the bill."

One of those quick blondes of Broadway was seated in a side street cafe when her escort asked if she wanted a drink. "Sure," she chirped. "Waiter," said the escort, "bring the lady a glass of water. 'I'm thirsty not dirty,' was the quick retort.

Wearing Nicely
"Mistress," "Mary, did you change the linen on my husband's bed?"
New Maid: "Hell, no, mum, I ain't wore out yet."

A Tribute
"I get twenty-five miles out of a gallon of gas with that little car of mine."
"Wonderful!"
"You said it, old man. That's some boat."

Instinct to the Rescue
First Colored Man: "But how does a fellow go 'bout to be a Pullman portah?"
No. 2: "Well, fust yo' marries, an' den yo' gits in debt, an' de rest so't o' comes nacheral."

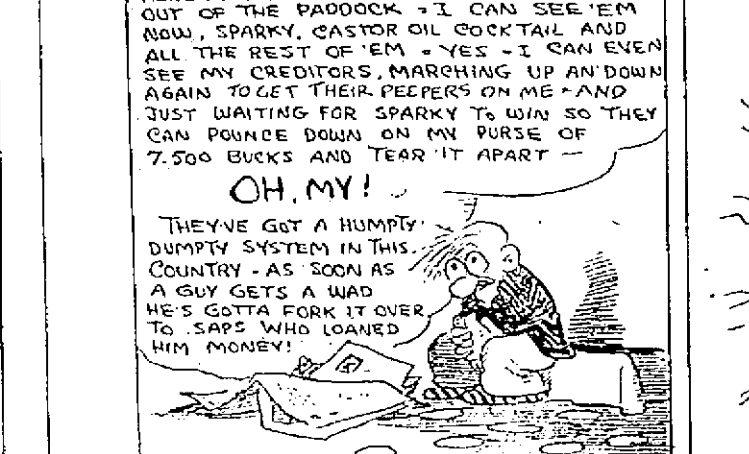

Unwelcome Recommendation
Mother: "But why all of a sudden don't you like those trousers, Bobby?"
Bobby: "Listen—did you buy them to please dad or to please me?"
"Why, you, of course, Bobby."

Force of Habit
"How dared you kiss me like that?" screamed the pretty young woman. "You—an absolute stranger—right on the public street—before everybody?"
"I don't know," apologized the movie actor. "Some damfool yelled 'camera!'"

All Set
Madge: "I'm dreadfully afraid of fire, and when I go to bed I take every precaution."
Marjorie: "So do I, dearie. I always wear silk ones."

Seeking Knowledge
Mrs. Crabshaw: "Does your father take any interest in your school work?"
Willie: "Since I've been studying chemistry he sometimes asks me questions about the home-brew."

Dawes Says La Follette Trying To Drive Ship of State From Moorings

PORT WAYNE, IND., Oct. 4.—(By The A. P.)—Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential candidate, closed his Indiana tour and his third mid-western trip with an address here last night in which he characterized the La Follette Independent candidacy as an endeavor to drive the ship of state from its constitutional moorings.

"Don't lose your moorings," he advised his audience.

"For one hundred and thirty-five years the ship of state has sailed with the constitution as a compass. It has not sailed by the wind as the politicians do. It has made us a great, happy and peaceful country. All things depend upon it."

The La Follette movement claimed Mr. Dawes' attention in all his speeches. "That is the predominant, overshadowing issue in this great campaign which is before us—the most important question which has been at issue since the civil war," he said.

The vice-presidential nominee in Terre Haute paid tribute to the courage of Mr. Debs as he did last week in the case of Senator La Follette in the latter's home city of Madison.

"I highly respect Mr. Debs courage," he said. "I respect the courage of those fellows who fight for something they believe in. The trouble with the politics of today is that on my side of it we have had too many fellows straddling issues and trying to please all sides on all questions."

Mr. Dawes while en route from Lafayette to Port Wayne was shown a statement issued today in Emmetsburg, Iowa, by Senator Smith W. Brookhart who renewed his demand that the Republican national committee ask Mr. Dawes to resign from the ticket and challenged him to visit Iowa again.

The only comment that Mr. Dawes had to make was that he expected to visit Iowa next week.
